A photograph of a building facade. The upper part features three rectangular, six-paned windows set in light-colored frames. Below these windows is a prominent red horizontal banner with white Cyrillic text. The lower part of the facade is a darker, brownish-grey color and features three arched, six-paned windows. Between and around these lower windows are decorative architectural elements, including ornate brackets and small, dark, rounded objects that look like light fixtures or decorative finials.
